ALFALFA FOR POULTRY GREENS Tell Your Poultry Raising Customers

To most poultry owners, green feed for winter is a difficult problem. A. A. Graham of Union County, Indiana, has been keeping poultry on a commercial basis for seventeen years. He has tried all sorts of things and has come to the conclusion that alfalfa furnishes the most readily available green feed for poultry in winter

This poultryman raises his own alfalfa and tries to cure what he feeds the poultry in such a way that the vitamins Of those who passed the window during will be preserved. He cuts the alfalfa in the test, 219 did not look at the display the forenoon, rakes it up and puts it into the barn in the afternoon. This is spread thinly over the mow floor, from twelve to eighteen inches deep, and allowed to dry in the shade.

winter, it is put into a cutting box and cut into short lengths. The cut alfalfa is put in pails and boiling water poured over it. Here it is left two hours after which The soaked alfalfa is fed to the hens in he can't very well dodge that old actime enough of the laying mash is mixed troughs.

HOW DO PEOPLE LOOK AT A SHOW WINDOW?

Where To Put The Big Feature

An investigation made recently brought to light the following figures:

display.

646 persons looked at the bottom of the display.

189 persons looked at the left side. 177 persons looked at the right.

By Referring to these figures the dealer who has a window to dress can decide what part of a trim should contain the When he wants to feed it in the goods he desires to feature most prominently.

with it to take up the excess moisture

MAINE DEALER SENDS TIP

For The Credit Man

How often has Bill Jones, we'll say, told you he would pay that old bill when 67 persons looked at the top of the dis- he sold his crops in the Fall? And thenthe harvesting season comes and goes. 411 persons looked at the center of the but you see nothing of Bill and the money.

A maine dealer who knows how easy it is for the Bill Jones of his town to forget his overdue bills and spend the cash elsewhere, writes us how he solves the problem.

The next time he meets Bill, he says: "Bill, I want some good potatoes such as you raise, and I'll send the truck out to get your crop, if you'd just as soon sell 'em to me as anybody at the full market price.

Of course, he has arranged to re-sell the "spuds," but the fact is that now Bill can't spend that money until he gets it from his seed man and when he gets it, count
